Q12: Is it true that there is no compulsion of religion in Islam? Moreover, should we not associate any government with Islam? Is the separation of state and religion a pre-requisite for peace?

This is correct. The Holy Prophet (peace be upon him) was instructed clearly that “Admonish, therefore, for thou art but an admonisher; thou art not appointed a keeper over them” in the Holy Quran. This also evidently shows that even the Holy Prophet (peace be upon him) was only responsible for the plain delivery of the message and not its imposition. Thus, any religious compulsion would therefore function in direct opposition to what the Holy Quran states in Verse 257 of Chapter 2.

This is also why MuslimsDownUnder.com recognises that separation of state and religion is a must in order to achieve peace.
